

LEWIS' AND UMW'S ATTORNEYS GO INTO CONFERENCE WITH JUDGE GOLDSBOROUGH AND GOVT COUNSEL, PRESUMABLY OVER UNION PLANS FOR BOND POSTING

Gov't Takes Drastic Steps To Safeguard The Nat'l Economy

2 EMERGENCY ORDERS

Organized Labor Rallies To UMW Cause To Escape Crushing Penalties

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Attorneys for John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers went into conference at 10 a. m. EST, today with Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough and Government counsel.

The conference presumably had to do with union plans to post bond covering the fines of $3,500,000 against the UMW and $10,000 against Lewis levied by Goldsborough as a result of refusal to obey his order to halt the coal shutdown.

The Federal Government today took drastic steps to safeguard the national economy from a prolonged fuel famine due to the continuing walkout of John L. Lewis' 400,000 soft coal miners.

Two emergency coal-saving orders went into effect at 12:01 a. m. EST. One imposed a general embargo on all but the most vital freight. The other curtailed parcel post shipments, just 19 days before Christmas.

These steps were taken as American organized labor rallied to the cause of the United Mine Workers' Union in its fight to escape crushing financial penalties for failure to halt the 16-day-old walkout.

The UMW itself was to post bond today with the clerk of the Federal District court to stay execution of a three-and-a-half million dollar fine levied against it for contempt pending an appeal that will reach the U. S. Supreme Court. Posting of a bond also was necessary to stay a $10,000 fine assessed against Lewis.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEAINED BY SCRIBES

Although the female pheasant was filled with shot—it looked as if the trio of Philadelphia hunters had taken a crack at it—and hidden under the seat in the car, not one of them would admit they had anything to do with it or knew how it got there.

Justice of the Peace William Wrigley, Edison, on Saturday afternoon fined Raymond J. Veit, 3330 North Phillips street, Philadelphia, $25 and the costs of prosecution for having a female pheasant in his car.

The three hunters were picked up by a deputy game warden in Warwick township, when the female pheasant was found in the rear of a car under the seat.

In the office of Justice of Peace Wrigley not one of the three hunters, two others beside the defendant, would open their mouths about the shooting of the bird illegally.

"I guess the pheasant must have flown into the car, shot itself and crept under the seat," said Justice Wrigley as he pinned the fine and costs on Veit who owned and operated the car.

"Some of these smart city guys certainly think we are stupid up here in Bucks county when they try to pull stuff like that."

Another Philadelphia hunter, John Butler, North 18th street, who also was arrested on Saturday in Upper Merion township charged with hunting without a resident hunter's license, was fined $20 and the costs of prosecution.

Charles T. Kibbleshouse, 77, a native of Philadelphia, committed suicide by hanging on Sunday at the P. O. S. of A. Home, at Chalfont. He had been mentally depressed, according to an attending physician.

The body was found hanging from a closet door in the victim's room. He had tied a piece of rope to a closet hook and stretched it across the top of the closet door, with a noose on the opposite end.

Kibbleshouse had been a guest at the home for about six years. Deputy Coroner Raymond Tice, M. D., of Quakertown, investigated and issued a certificate of death due to suicide. The body was removed to the George R. Huff funeral home at Lansdale.

Fleetwings To Close, Unofficial Announcement

Unofficially it has been announced that the Fleetwings plants of Kaiser Cargo will close with the shifts ending at midnight tonight. No statement whatever was available at the plant's offices this morning, and consequently the only information is that obtained from employees.

It is said that the freight and express embargo is given as the cause for the closing.

Rumors current on the street that Paterson Parchment Paper Co. is planning to close at once were found to be rumors only. From office of Paterson Co. this morning it was announced that work would continue today, with the usual Saturday closing observed tomorrow.

"After the beginning of the week we will be able to tell better whether we can continue, depending upon pulp shipments into the plant," it was stated.

One firm in lower Bucks county area, Badenhansen Corporation, Cornwells Heights, is an exception to the current rule, and is planning on either Monday or Tuesday next to add extra shifts. Elmer B. Vansant, an official of the firm, announces that the firm has already "asked for additional manpower." The planned increase in shifts, he advises, is due to the fact that the firm is expanding, also to the effort to catch up with the schedule of production. It is presumed, says Mr. Vansant, that the extra shifts will add 20 to 25 men as a nucleus. The firm has a 90 days' inventory at present, it is announced, and can continue on that basis.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Oakland, Cal., was returning to normal after AFL leaders called off the general strike that had paralyzed Alameda County for two days.

The Army, despite lagging enlistments, has extended the draft holiday through January.

President Truman named a Committee on Civil Rights to strengthen the Government's fight against intolerance and mob violence.

Russia's recently expressed conciliatory attitude so speeded negotiations of the Foreign Ministers Council that work on the five draft treaties with the German satellites neared completion. The deputies were ordered to prepare the draft for signing, and work on the German treaty may be started next week.

The spirit of harmony also characterized the meeting of the United Nations General Assembly subcommittee charged with drawing up a resolution on disarmament. However, the job of drafting an acceptable resolution on use of the veto was abandoned after five fruitless days.

Premier Tsaldaris of Greece arrived to present his plea for United Nations investigation of alleged border violations by Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania. A dispatch from Athens declared evidence was indisputable that civil war against Greece was being fomented on territory of her neighbors.

The Italian police reported that a secret organization under orders of the Soviet Government and led by a Russian officer was spearheading terrorism in Italy. Washington heard that the Soviet Military Administration in Germany had formed ten giant trusts to control and bleed German industry.

Failure of the London conference on India was confirmed as Hindu and Moslem leaders refused to budge from their previous positions.

The Grand Jury approved the Jury of View's findings and the report has been filed in Quarter Sessions Court here.

MINISTERIUM SESSION

The Bristol Ministerium will hold an important business meeting on Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. in Bristol Presbyterian Church.

QUEUES AT BRISTOL P. O. BEAT DEADLINE

In Attempt To Get Parcels Through Before Embargo Became Effective

MANY XMAS PARCELS

Hundreds upon hundreds of packages were rushed through Bristol post office up until last midnight, in an effort to beat the embargo deadline imposed under order No. 34433 of the Postmaster General, dated December 3rd.

For the past two or three days individuals have queued up in the post-office lobby, eager to get their packages under the line—Christmas gifts, overseas relief gift packages, and parcels post in general.

The embargo which went into effect at 12:01 this morning, brought about by the coal strike situation, was the direct cause of individuals filing the lobby at certain hours of the day, especially during the noon period, and after four p. m.

Now, with the embargo in effect, parcels are limited to five pounds with certain exceptions.

The order of the Postmaster General reads in part as follows: "Lack of fuel for normal operation of trains using coal has made necessary curtailment of train service. The Office of Defense Transportation has placed an embargo on certain express and freight shipments, and has made written request to the Post Office Department for an embargo of comparable extent on mail matter in order that coal conservation may be effected. . . . So, effective at 12:01 a. m., December 6th, no article of first class mail, including air mail, weighing in excess of five pounds, and no parcels of fourth class matter exceeding five pounds in weight, or 18" in length, or 60" in length and girth combined, shall be accepted for mailing."

The exceptions include: 5-day old chicks and other poultry poult; cut flowers, seeds, plants and other nursery stock; eggs, butter and other perishable food products; serums, medicines, drugs, surgical instruments, and dressings and hospital supplies; shipment of money in the regular mail; local parcels and all local matter for delivery on local rural and star routes; parcels addressed to men of the armed forces and other persons served through army and fleet post offices; second class matter and mats for newspapers and magazine publications; films.

The restrictions will be in effect until the coal strike ends, it is announced.

LANGHORNE CAFETERIA IS BECOMING POPULAR

Pupils Are Patronizing The School Lunch Room To Greater Degree

MENU IS EXPANDED

LANGHORNE, Dec. 6.—Popularity of the cafeteria at Langhorne-Middletown high school has grown this school term to the extent that 65 pupils daily have taken platter lunches; and about 125 purchase one or two food dishes or ice cream.

It was early in October that the cafeteria service was started, with Miss Janice Kline, instructress in home economics, assisted by a number of pupils. Meals made available at that time were mainly fruit juices, sandwiches, ice cream and cookies. When it became evident that more pupils would patronize the cafeteria, provided the diet was varied and hot dishes added, the menu was enlarged. Services of a full time cook were secured on Nov. 11th through efforts of the board of directors, the pupils aiding in serving meals and acting as cashiers.

The meals planned by Miss Kline now consist of fruit juices, soups, sandwiches, platter lunches, ice cream, cookies and milk.

The home economics department and regular class rooms are used as lunch rooms. Plans are being made to have benches and tables built by the industrial arts department pupils. A new six-burner electric stove has been purchased, also large boilers, fruit glasses, cabinets for dishes and other equipment.

The board of directors has approved the plan to have names of individuals or organizations donating trays inscribed on same.

It is anticipated by those in charge that more pupils will in the future partake of cafeteria meals, or supplement packed lunches with cafeteria items. The residents of the area have been invited to visit the cafeteria during school hours or at appointed times on certain evenings.

Authorize Construction of Buckingham Twp. Span

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6.—Authorization for approval of construction of a new bridge in Buckingham township has been given by the Grand Jury.

A board of viewers, composed of William R. Stuckert, Harry C. Terry and Clarence E. Benner, some time ago recommended that a new bridge be built over Pidcock creek on Bycott road. The bridge adjoins the land of Philip S. Fryberger and James H. Purdy.

The present bridge, which is an old stone type, is in need of repairs. It is a ten-foot stone arch bridge 22 feet wide.

To build a new bridge, which is necessary, will prove too expensive for Buckingham township and the hearing was held so that the County Commissioners will take over the construction of the new structure.

The Grand Jury approved the Jury of View's findings and the report has been filed in Quarter Sessions Court here.

IS SUGAR SWEET?

Yes, sugar is sweet. But not the arguments which develop about it.

None of the wartime disputes in the United States have been more bitter than those over the question of why there hasn't been enough sugar to go around.

Most of these old arguments are about to be renewed. "Something new has been added," and the next Congress is almost certain to have to fight the whole question through to a decision.

There has been two recent developments. Neither attracted much attention—yet! One is that the OPA, which is disbanded its control staffs in most fields, recently set up a whole new chain of sugar-rationing offices. It was just as though there had been an inside tip that proposals were afoot to make this one brand of controls a permanent going concern.

This week the second development appeared. The Food Industry Council Sugar Committee released an elaborate "Analysis of World Situation on Sugar" presenting arguments which, if taken at their face value, would call for sugar to be rationed not only in 1947 but forever.

Whatever may have been the intention of the signers, and without questioning their presumptive sincerity, the document has all the hall-marks of OPA propaganda. It could have been prepared under Henderson, or Bowles, or Porter, or any other of the New Deal believers in planned economy run by bureaucrats.

As to the signers themselves, they are all busy men in their own fields, heads of large business concerns which touch sugar only incidentally; and nothing could be more obvious than that they have had neither the time nor facilities personally to study out and find answers to sugar questions which often baffle those who have spent lifetimes in that industry.

Someone helped write the Analysis which they signed. It is very likely that at some stage of the controversy, they will be called upon to identify "mother's little helpers," so that Congress and the American people can satisfy themselves whether some of the conclusions had ulterior and selfish motivations.

What is the situation and prospect with regard to sugar? Not too good. The situation is that, where in 1929 our consumption of sugar was 115 pounds per person a year, it now is only 78 pounds.

THREE WHISKIES AND 2 ALES COST MAN OVER $200

Theo. Warris, Sellersville, Also Loses His Driver's License for Year

BEFORE JUDGE KELLER

Other Cases Disposed Of At Criminal Court Session

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6.—Three free whiskies and two ales cost Theodore Warris, a gear cutter at a Sellersville gauge plant, over $200 and the loss of his automobile driver's license for a year.

Warris told Judge Keller in criminal court that he had imbibed while visiting his brother's home at Weiselt on November 17, and that he started back to Quakertown with his family, not feeling the effects of the whiskey-ale combination.

In Quakertown, Warris' car struck another automobile causing some damage, but no one was injured. Dr. Fred J. Phillips, of Quakertown, who examined Warris, testified that he was "under the influence" and not in shape to drive a car. The doctor also stated that Warris wanted to "take a poke at him" in the office during the examination.

Judge Keller warned Warris about drinking before driving a car, and then fined him $200 and costs and suspended a prison sentence of two months on condition that Warris pay the costs and the amount of damage done to the owner of the car he hit. He was also placed on probation for one year and directed to surrender his driver's license.

Norman Payne, of Philadelphia, who was recently discharged from the military service, was sentenced by Judge Keller to pay one-third the costs in a case that has been pending for several years because of Payne's absence. The defendant pleaded guilty to taking part in a canoe theft together with Gene Lucas, for whom a bench warrant was issued.

William Birchall, of Southampton, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to a charge of driving while drunk on November 1st, in Upper Southampton township. The defendant was not involved in an accident. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed by the Court.

Rose Groves, of Fallsington, pleaded guilty to operating a motor vehicle after her operating privilege had been suspended or revoked, on July 25, in Morrisville. Judge Keller directed that she pay the costs and placed her on probation.

John J. Zimmerman, of Southampton, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for driving while intoxicated.

BUCKS ELEMENTARY SUPERVISOR SPEAKS

Dr. Genevieve Bowen Addresses Members of The Sorosis at Langhorne

COLLECTION IS TAKEN

LANGHORNE, Dec. 6.—Two guests were introduced to members of Langhorne Sorosis yesterday afternoon, namely Dr. Oliver Heckman, supervising principal of Langhorne-Middletown public schools; and Dr. Genevieve Bowen, supervisor of elementary education of Bucks Co. public schools.

Dr. Heckman was presented by Mrs. Frederic Scull, chairman of the Sorosis education committee, and after introductory remarks Dr. Heckman presented Dr. Bowen to the club members. The woman speaker urged a co-operative approach between parents and teachers, and recommended allowing each child to develop his own potentials and individualities, "still keeping an eye on group responsibility." The speaker reminded that "the child needs the skills of social living, and knowledge of fields which touch him."

Dr. Bowen told of having visited the Langhorne-Middletown schools, adding that she thinks highly of the program of the buildings and of the teaching staff locally. A question period followed.

Mrs. Wagner, supervisor of music at Langhorne high school, presented musicians: Dorothy Probst who gave a piano solo; and Patricia Crout and Elizabeth Stradling, who favored with a vocal duet.

TRENTON TRAFFIC GROWS SERIOUS

Another Bridge Over Delaware River Has Been Suggested As Relief

PENNA. IS READY

Traffic relief in Trenton is being given serious consideration and it has been proposed that another bridge be built crossing the Delaware river. Several years ago it was suggested that a bridge be built jointly by the two states, crossing the river in the vicinity of Yardley.

With the completion of the super highway which is now being built by-passing Bristol, additional traffic is expected to be routed through Pennsylvania and of course much of it will enter Trenton.

Construction of a toll bridge over the Delaware River below the present bridge street span was suggested during discussion of Trenton traffic relief among State and Trenton officials and civic leaders.

At a luncheon conference sponsored by the Committee on Safety and Traffic of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, Spencer Miller, Jr., State highway commissioner, outlined the State's plan to begin work next year on the depressed roadway in the old canal bed to carry through traffic from the Brunswick circle to the Bridge street bridge.

Charles M. Noble, State highway engineer, said alternate crossings of the river were possible and T. C. Frame, chief engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, came up with the toll bridge proposal. It was pointed out that the new canal route would be a State freeway for fast-moving passenger and commercial traffic, while the present Bridge street bridge, to which it would be linked, might greatly slow traffic. Elsewhere toll bridges over the Delaware, it was pointed out, were common.

The speaker reminded that "the child needs the skills of social living, and knowledge of fields which touch him."

Dr. Bowen told of having visited the Langhorne-Middletown schools, adding that she thinks highly of the program of the buildings and of the teaching staff locally. A question period followed.

Mrs. Wagner, supervisor of music at Langhorne high school, presented musicians: Dorothy Probst who gave a piano solo; and Patricia Crout and Elizabeth Stradling, who favored with a vocal duet.

At the time of transaction of business, Mrs. Phillip G. Lewis was the presiding officer. Thirty-five had gathered in the Langhorne library for the meeting. Mrs. Lewis announced that the Christmas party on December 19th will commence at 2:30. Each member is asked to take a collection.

TRENTON TRAFFIC GROWS SERIOUS

Another Bridge Over Delaware River Has Been Suggested As Relief

PENNA. IS READY

Traffic relief in Trenton is being given serious consideration and it has been proposed that another bridge be built crossing the Delaware river. Several years ago it was suggested that a bridge be built jointly by the two states, crossing the river in the vicinity of Yardley.

With the completion of the super highway which is now being built by-passing Bristol, additional traffic is expected to be routed through Pennsylvania and of course much of it will enter Trenton.

Construction of a toll bridge over the Delaware River below the present bridge street span was suggested during discussion of Trenton traffic relief among State and Trenton officials and civic leaders.

At a luncheon conference sponsored by the Committee on Safety and Traffic of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, Spencer Miller, Jr., State highway commissioner, outlined the State's plan to begin work next year on the depressed roadway in the old canal bed to carry through traffic from the Brunswick circle to the Bridge street bridge.

Charles M. Noble, State highway engineer, said alternate crossings of the river were possible and T. C. Frame, chief engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, came up with the toll bridge proposal. It was pointed out that the new canal route would be a State freeway for fast-moving passenger and commercial traffic, while the present Bridge street bridge, to which it would be linked, might greatly slow traffic. Elsewhere toll bridges over the Delaware, it was pointed out, were common.

Bristol Rotarians See Pictures of Western Tour

Harry R. High, Philadelphia broker, entertained local Rotarians with "movies" which he took on the 1946 Shrine convention tour to San Francisco, Cal., when the club members met at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon. The pictures, all in color, were projected by C. W. Winter.

President Richard W. Fechtenburg was in charge of the meeting. Among the guests present were: Mrs. Harry R. High, Mrs. Richard W. Fechtenburg, and Mrs. Lester D. Thorne.

The State Police Say . . .

This is to remind motorists and pedestrians alike that hours of darkness will soon be at their peak—and that hours of darkness are dangerous. There will be fewer accidents due to poor visibility, if pedestrians cross only at intersections in cities, and if they wear something white or carry a flashlight while walking on country lanes and highways. Don't make it a black Christmas for yourself or anyone else.

DAN PATCH CONTROVERSY

It should be possible for Indiana and Minnesota to get together and reconcile their respective claims to Dan Patch, one of the world's most spectacular harness horses. Hollywood is at work on a picture built around Dan's life and achievements.

Last spring Indiana's department of commerce and public relations suggested a Hoosier background for this narrative. Now it comes forward with a protest against leaving Dan Patch's early environment out of the picture.

The record shows that Dan Patch was foaled in Benton County, Ind., nearly 50 years ago. He started his racing career at La Fayette, Ind., and after he found his stride he never lost a race or a heat. He set a world's record of 2:01 for a mile in harness on the half-mile track at Allentown, Pa. Minnesota gets into the Hollywood script because it was at this state's annual fair that Dan paced a mile in 1:55 against a runner.

According to Indiana officials, the life of Dan Patch should show him frisking around a Hoosier pasture under the discriminating eyes of Hoosier judges of horse flesh. The tale should follow him as he grows strong and fleet on Indiana hay, oats and corn and it should not fail to include his debut at La Fayette.

But the fact remains that the steed did not win glory on the race track until he went to Pennsylvania, ate Pennsylvania oats, corn and hay, and won immortal fame while munching Minnesota equine cuisine. Indiana's complaint is far-fetched, but perhaps it is merely clever press strategy for the forthcoming film.

SCIENTIFIC BUT SIMPLE

Things are getting more complicated all the time, but sometimes the result is simplification. In case this is too much of a paradox, take the case of the world's fastest stop-watch, a new electronic gadget which will record accurately one-millionth of a second.

Undoubtedly this invention will be of great value in the fields of science and industry, for which it is being developed. But for those technically inclined, consideration of its value in the field of sports might be more in order.

For example, American track records list the best time for the 60-yard dash as 6.1 seconds and there are eight co-holders of this mark, including such speedsters as Jesse Owens, Herbert Thompson, Barney Ewell and Edward Conwell. The records for the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes also have several co-holders.

Now it is reasonable to believe that no eight men can run the 60-yard dash in exactly the same time, although stop-watches heretofore in use may not have been able to prove it.

The new electronic timer can be expected to decide all that. In the near future there probably will be announced such times for the 60-yard dash as 6.123432 and 6.143212, making it easy to decide the winner of such an event, although under present conditions both times would be listed as 6.1.

IS SUGAR SWEET?

The more the government has "monkeyed" with sugar, the faster its consumption has fallen off. Which is another way of saying that, the more the government "controlled" sugar to make it plentiful, the scarcer it has become.

This point alone might make those who stand in the position of the housewife say at once that, since more controls meant less sugar, the way to get more sugar is to wipe out controls.

Such an opinion, however, is not to the taste of the compilers of the analysis. They think the remedy is still more controls. The OPA will need all of its brand new branch offices, dedicated to sugar rationing, if the Committee's suggestions are followed.

Why is sugar-release opposed? Partly because the outlook is dark for early increases in supply.

But mainly for the same hackneyed reasons that OPA has always opposed the de-control of anything—because it is stated that "sudden de-control" would cause "violent fluctuations;" to "avoid a disastrous situation such as followed abrupt de-control after World War I."

Now, there are two points to be made concerning this reasoning.

One is that, if anything may be said to have been demonstrated beyond argument by recent events in the U. S. A., it is that "gradual de-control" is an impossibility. It simply can't be done. The decision has to be between all or none—just as it was, for instance, in the matter of meat. In other words, talk of "gradual de-control" simply translates into "continued control."

The other is that we will never de-control anything any time if we are going to be frightened by "fluctuations." These have never been more than temporary—never "disastrous."

Recently there has been a lot of hokum turned out by propagandists busy with the scheme of salvaging sugar rationing out of the wreckage of the OPA. Entirely preposterous statements have been made in newspapers and on the radio: statements that "grocers were ruined" by soaring sugar prices after World War I; intimations that the post-war depression of the early 20's was due to too-rapid de-control.

A few grocers may have lost some money over-buying sugar at high prices during the period in question; as to being ruined, probably not one in the United States was bankrupted thereby—and if any were it was their own fault for trying to speculate instead of simply selling groceries.

The panic following the end of World War I, was the result of one factor, and that alone. It was the inevitable result of the tariff slashes during the Wilson regime; it lasted as long as those lowered tariffs lasted, vanished when they were brought back up to the protection level.

For those who may come into possession of a copy of the flashy 32-page "Analysis," and want to check for themselves whether this is really an independent survey, or merely a vehicle for OPA propaganda, there is an easy test.

Turn through for some of the well-known instances of government breakdowns and mistakes during its control of sugar. You will find them ignored, key factors though they are to the sugar situation.

You will find references to the falling off of the sugar-beet supply, for example—but you will find not a word about the fact that while that unfortunate falling off occurred, and while the sugar crisis was developing, the Government spent millions of dollars paying beet-sugar growers not to grow beet sugar.

In one year, the American people lost the entire Puerto Rican sugar supply—about 10 per cent of our imports—because OPA wouldn't budge an inch on prices to permit striking workmen to be paid a wage increase other departments of our government said had to be awarded. Yet this is not mentioned.

Again, the fact that millions of American tax moneys are going directly into the coffers of the Cuban government, instead of to the Cuban sugar growers as an incentive to raise more sugar, is made to appear a selfish act by the Cuban authorities, instead of the colossal piece of stupidity on the part of our own bureaucrats which it really is.

All in all, the new developments on the various fronts of the control vs. free markets battle are not going to sweeten the sugar situation.

Exchange Club Honors High School Grid Squad

Members of the football squad of Bristol high school were guests last evening of Bristol Exchange Club at a roast beef dinner, served in the Elks home, Radcliffe street.

On this occasion the squad, Exchangeites and other guests heard a talk on football given by George Munger, chief coach of the University of Pennsylvania eleven, Philadelphia. Coach Munger explained some football tactics, both offensive and defensive. He showed motion pictures of the Thanksgiving Day game between U. of P. and Cornell. Various plays were described as the pictures were shown. Mr. Munger "back-tracked" at times to explain certain outstanding movements.

In addition to the football squad members, other guests were introduced. Each member of the team was presented with a picture of Bristol high school squad, these being gifts from Exchangeites.

The program was arranged by Charles Loyd, with David Sheerer, Jr., presiding during the business session.

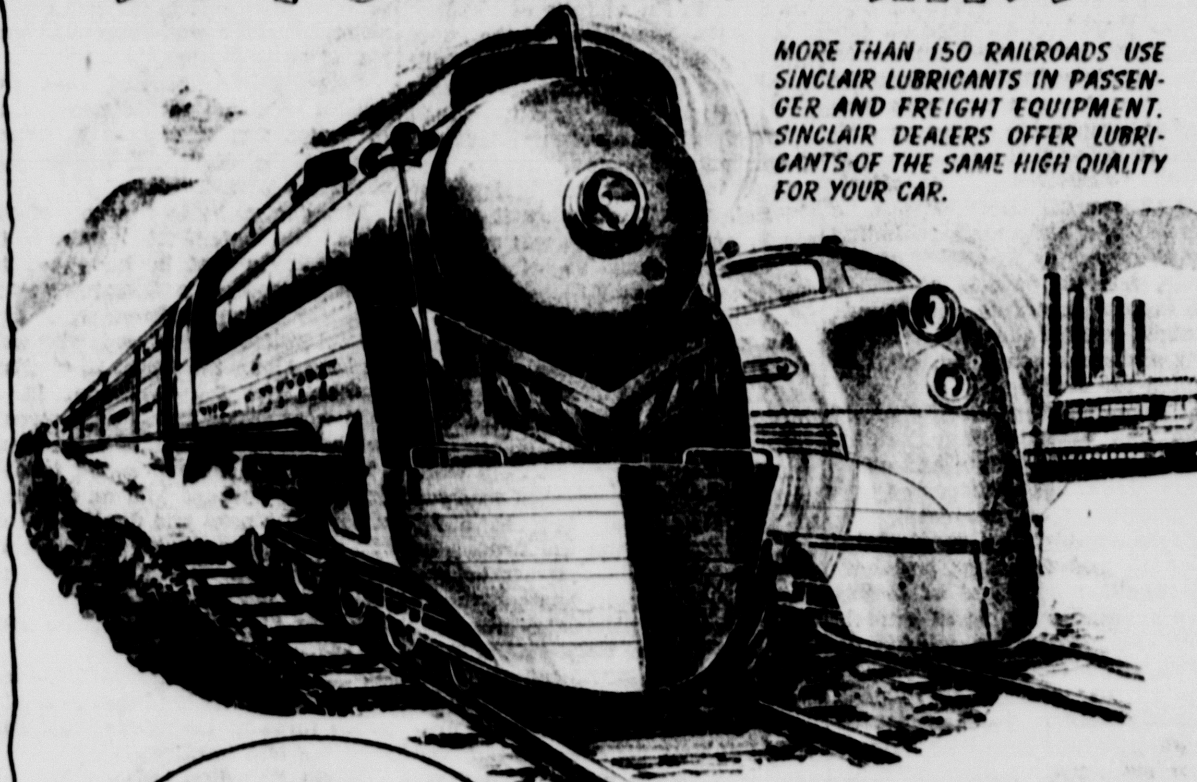

Songs "On for Bristol" and "Alma Mater" were led by Andrew MacArthur, with Keith M. Rosser at the piano.

Among those introduced by Mr. Sheerer were Charles Utz, Bristol high in-charge manager, Mr. Utz in turn introducing: Harry McClister, coach; Donald Patterson, assistant coach; Charles Lock, assistant faculty manager; Lester Michael, faculty member; and Dr. Thomas Fanning. Then Coach McClister introduced squad members as follows:

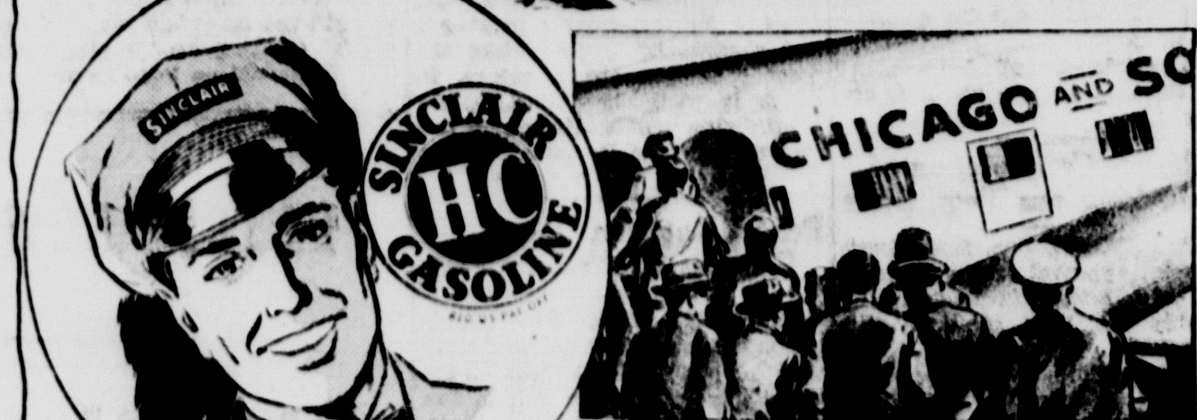

Salvatore Accardi, Paul Bessinger, Sabatino Cancelli, Nicholas Cancelli, Robert Coles, David Corisco, Donald DeLong, William DeRisi, Edward Finegan, William Foltz, Joseph Franco, Joseph Gleason, Edward Hart, Richard Harman, Kenneth Heath, Robert Hutchison, Michael Janucci, Robert Kornstadt, Sebastian Monachello, Robert Norris, Joseph Natale, William Pearson, Michael Pone, John Rice, Richard Riedel, Francis Singer, Joseph Singer, James Sottile, Harry Stephens, Bernard Stiles, Richard Vandergriff.

Managers of the local squad are Stanley Repetski and Clarence Staley.

SPORTSMEN'S

BY JOE ELBERSON

No reports yet... since most of the fellows stay at least a week when they go up for deer I haven't had a report of a deer killed so far this season.

Talked with two fellows yesterday who came home because of the terrible cold wave that greeted opening day on Monday. They were up in the north central part of the State. Know of one other chap from Bristol who left last week-end for the Poconos with a tent and a sleeping bag for his "hunting lodge." I'll wager he found things rather brisk on Monday morning.

More hunters than ever were reported in the big woods this week so no doubt hunters from this area will be bringing in some bucks in the next few days.

The winners... here are the winners of the 1946 fishing contest conducted by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association for its members: Trout Division—Ernie Lawrence, with a 15-inch (1 lb. 2 oz.) brook trout; Salt Water Division—Herman Petrizzi, with a tuna which weighed in at 111 pounds; Bass Division—George Eiling, with a five and three-quarter pound largemouth; Non-game Division—George H. Wetherill with a catfish weighing four pounds and two ounces; Pickerel Division—won by Marlinum Bakelaar with his 2 pound, 5 ounce entry.

Official presentation of prizes to the winners will be made at the big January meeting of the Association.

Trapping notes... in answer to numerous inquiries regarding the following two items, here is what the Game Commission says:

"Trap Tags—All traps must be tagged to show name and address of owner. Although metal tags are preferable, durable non-metallic tags may be used."

"Trapping Without License—Persons under 18 years of age may trap fur-bearing animals (except beavers) and predators without a hunter's license, but must have license to trap raccoons, which are game animals, and beavers."

Yellow perch... up until the cold spell hit on Monday a number of anglers were taking some good-sized yellow perch from Silver Lake. One fisherman last week had 7 perch, all over a foot in length.

Federation meeting... next Monday evening, December 9th, the final meeting of 1946 will be held by the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. It is scheduled for the RGE Hall in Doylestown. All delegates from member clubs are urged to be on hand for the meeting.

HULMEVILLE

The meeting nights of the Young Adult Association of Neshaminy Methodist Church have been changed. The supper conference is scheduled for the second Friday of each month, and the business meeting for the last Friday evening of every month. At the meeting held Wednesday evening in the church social hall, John Becker presided. A Christmas entertainment will be held in conjunction with the supper conference next Friday evening at 6.30, each member being asked to take a dish of food. Refreshments followed Wednesday's meeting.

EARLY XMAS CARDS UNLIKE PRESENT ONES

Not Until 1900's That Bells, Candles, Wreaths and Such Appeared

ALBUM OF '84 LOCATED

It was not until the 1900's, 60 years or more after the first Christmas greetings, that the holly wreaths, gleaming candles, bells and other familiar design motifs began to appear on Christmas cards. Before that time, Christmas card designs in general had little or no relation to Christmas or the winter season.

In the 1880's, when Christmas cards reached their first peak of popularity, most of the designs featured flowers, children, spring and summer scenes, birds and animals. Of our present-day designs, only snow scenes and snow men were used.

Recently a complete line of samples of Christmas cards of the year 1884 turned up among some forgotten odds and ends stored in a New England stationery store. These samples, bound in an album, provide an accurate picture of the Christmas cards popular at that time. Turning the faded, dog-eared pages we come across a card showing a little girl in an apron picking flowers in a country field. At the bottom of the card are the words, "May Christmas be plentiful and happy for thee."

Another card shows farmers cutting hay, with clover and daisies forming a decorative border to the scene. Like most of the cards in the album, its edges are fringed with beautiful silk. On another card two vases, one of roses and the other of pansies, are set against a light green background. A lily pond, trees and sky are pictured in a small panel beside the vases. The verse reads:

"Flower of the summerland,
blossoms unfading,
Laden with memories of mountain
and shore;
Bear on this winter's day sweet
Christmas greetings,
And whisper of many bright pleasures in store."

There are several cards in the shape of fans; others show children digging in the sand at the seashore. One card, with a rabbit and a turtle on it, quotes a phrase which has since become famous:

"The voice of the turtle resounds through the air
It wishes glad Christmas, and so does the hare."

The public at that time apparently had no objection to a pun being included in their Christmas greeting. For one card, picturing a bear holding sprigs of holly in its paws and dancing, contains this message:

"All care and trouble, gloom or ruin
Fly when the Christmas cheer is
'bruin'."

Perhaps the most interesting card in the collection is one which appears to be hand-made. It is a pen and ink sketch of a very thin Santa Claus standing nonchalantly with his legs crossed beside a little girl identified as "Topsy." At the top of the card is the unique message: "A most consummate Xmas and an utterly utterly New Year."

Earliest Religious Card
Except for one or two showing angels and choir boys, there are no cards of a religious nature in the catalog. However, it is known that religious cards were published prior to this time, although their use was not widespread.

In 1875 Marcus Ward and Co., of Belfast, Ireland, published a set of four cards which pictured scenes of the Nativity. And four centuries earlier, in 1450, a German New Year's card contained a sketch of the Christmas Child, this being the earliest religious card on record.

Interestingly enough, New Year's cards were popular long before Christmas cards. Both in China, where printing was invented, and in the Rhine Valley, where the first European printing presses were established, New Year's greetings have a long tradition.

The exchange of Christmas greetings had its beginnings in England in the form of the Christmas note, or a letter of good wishes. One that is still in existence has a design in the shape of a clover. Each leaf contains an illustration of a holiday scene—old folk playing cards, young people playing ball, and two lovers spooning. The title reads, "Youth—Age—Keeping Ye Merry Christmas."

Later, or over 250 years ago, English school children gave us another forerunner of today's Christmas card. These were "Christmas pieces," expressions of good will which the children wrote at Christmastime to show their parents the progress they were making in penmanship. The borders of these "Christmas pieces" contained engravings dramatizing important events of the year, such as battles, coronations, and rural sports. Eventually scenes from the Scripture took the place of these.

First Christmas Card
It wasn't until 1842 that the first known Christmas card appeared. Etched by a 16-year-old British youth, William M. Egley, its design was limited to black and white. It illustrated on the card are a banquet scene, a party scene, skaters, and the Christmas pantomime Harlequin and Columbine. Beneath the figures in the pantomime are the words, "A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year To You."

Recently another card has been brought forth to compete with the Egley card as the earliest on record. Sketched by a man named Forbes and lithographed by R. H. Pease, of Albany, N. Y., this card was evidently a commercial card advertising Pease's store. In rustic lettering across the top of the card is the legend, "Pease's Great Variety Store In the Temple of Fancy." Beneath this are several panels showing a family group, toys, a Christmas dinner and a wassail bowl.

Since Pease was in business in Albany from 1834 until 1855, it is possible that his card preceded the Egley card. However there is no way of knowing, since the Pease card has no date on it. In any case, it can be regarded as the first known American Christmas card.

The custom of sending Christmas cards to friends is attributed to W. C. Dobson, a British painter, who designed a card in 1844 and sent it to a friend instead of a letter. The following year he had his card lithographed and sent copies to his friends.

By the late 1860's the Christmas card custom was gaining wide popularity in England. Hearty squires, plum puddings, angels, and carolers were among the favorite designs. While most of the cards contained the usual Christmas greetings, some featured quotations from the New Testament and quotations from Dickens and Shakespeare.

During the 1870's and 80's a wide variety of cards appeared. There were boudoir cards, padded cards, cards with silk fringe and folding cards reminiscent of a needlework. One collection included 163,000 different designs bound in 700 volumes, and weighed over six tons. But on the whole, the majority of cards of this period had very little Christmas significance. It was not unusual to find such oddities as grass, dried flowers and gelatin used as ornaments in the designs.

Christmas Cards in America

However, not all Christmas card designs were so far-fetched. Here in America some of the finest examples of the greeting card craft were being produced by an immigrant named Louis Prang. Prang came to America in 1850 and opened a lithography plant in Roxbury, Mass. Anxious to obtain a wide variety of subject matter for his cards, he conducted nationwide contests with prizes for the best Christmas card designs. Public interest caught on immediately and entries were annually exhibited, the competitions going on year after year.

Prang's work featured very beautiful flower prints, often printed in as many as 20 colors. His artistry in the special effects he achieved and the charm of his colors—has never since been equaled in any Christmas cards.

Fads in Christmas Cards
By 1890 the popularity of Christmas cards declined. Cheap cards from Germany flooded the greeting card market. But with the 20th century a new era in American Christmas cards began.

There were fads. One season the cards featured metal keys, real sprigs of holly and four-leaf clovers. Around 1912 Christmas "letters" became popular. One consisted of a series of six letters to be opened in the morning, during the forenoon, at noon, afternoon, at six o'clock and before retiring at night. Each was sealed in a transparent envelope so the recipient would know what time to open it. The complete series came in one large decorated envelope with a verse like this:

"There's six Christmas letters awaiting you here
To bring you my wishes for glad
Christmas cheer;
And if the directions you duly obey
I'll greet you by proxy six times through the day."

The cards of World War I combined patriotic motifs with the traditional scenes. The most popular single card was the "Hooverized Christmas Card." Hoover was food administrator at that time and his name was synonymous with economy. The verse read something to the effect that the sender was "Hooverized" on beans, sugar, etc., and accordingly had "saved" on the card, but was nevertheless sending best wishes for a Merry Christmas.

Two Billion Cards This Year

The Christmas card has come a long way since young Egley etched his card 104 years ago. Today, through the use of the most modern techniques in offset printing and water color inks, the quality of reproduction of the American Christmas card rivals that of any branch of the graphic arts. And where, in 1846, 1000 copies of the Horsley card were distributed, in 1946 almost 2 billion Christmas cards will be mailed in the United States alone.

Dear God, for the blessings of this week we bring Thee our gratitude. We are conscious of Thy leadership, but painfully aware of our weakness. We ask forgiveness of our mistakes of the week. We pray that Thou wilt strengthen the golden cord of love which binds our hearts to Thy great heart of love. May we on Sunday enter Thy courts to worship Thee. And when we turn our steps homeward may we do so with a firmer resolution that with Thy help we shall live as children of the Eternal God should live. Speak to our souls, awaken our consciences, and give us Thy blessing. These mercies we ask in our Redeemer's Name. Amen.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Handicapping Mr. Byrnes

Washington, Dec. 6. THE clearer becomes the character of the job which Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and the other American representatives at the United Nations are doing, the deeper ought to be public indignation over the way in which their difficulties are being increased by men and events within their own country.

FEW public officials in American history have ever had a harder task than that laid upon Mr. Byrnes. It is impossible to exaggerate its importance. That Mr. Byrnes fully grasps these facts no one questions. That he is putting everything he has, mentally, morally and physically, into the effort to achieve an international co-operation that will insure permanent peace, only the twisted and uninformed will dispute. Nor is it easy to see how anyone could have made greater progress than Mr. Byrnes. The criticism of him seems trivial and his critics not wholly free from prejudice.

UNDER the circumstances, it does seem that the one thing to which Mr. Byrnes is entitled and upon which success depends is the wholehearted support of a united country. To a very large extent, of course, he has exactly that. Our foreign policy is a nonpartisan policy. The Republicans, in the main, have loyally co-operated. In the main, too, so has the press. Yet, the American position has been enfeebled and Mr. Byrnes and his colleagues handicapped by two things that never should have happened. One, of course, is the coal stoppage. The long series of more or less crippling strikes with which we have been afflicted since the close of the war certainly have been no help to Mr. Byrnes. It is not easy for the United States to assert world leadership and command respect for its strength when it is so remarkably clear that it is unable to manage its own internal affairs with reasonable intelligence. There have been many evidences of this in the past eighteen months and it is beyond dispute that they have weakened us in the foreign field.

THE climax was the coal strike. This has produced the nearest thing to a general strike this country has ever had. It endangers the very existence of industry and is a concrete threat of chaos, which plays directly into the hands of those whose aim it is to overthrow our form of government. It not only tears to pieces our domestic economy but it makes it impossible for us to carry out our commitments abroad. A more effective way of cutting the ground from under our representatives in the United Nations could hardly be devised. But, while that is Mr. Byrnes's most serious handicap, it is not his only one.

There are Mr. Henry Wallace and Mr. Elliott Roosevelt. True, neither of these has much standing in the country. What they say is not important, except that it can be used by those who oppose us to argue that this nation is badly divided on foreign policy. This is not true, but it hurts our cause that the facts can be so distorted as to make it seem true to anyone.

DISMISSED from the Truman Cabinet, Mr. Wallace is now engaged in making a series of speeches assailing the American foreign policy, eulogizing Russia and disparaging the United Nations. The line he takes is very much like the line of the Daily Worker, and his utterances naturally arouse enthusiasm among the radical groups in New York. Even more extraordinary are the remarks of Elliott Roosevelt in Moscow. In conversations there Elliott was reported as unfavorably contrasting the United States and Great Britain with the Soviet Union, and asserting that his own country is supporting the United Nations "for purely selfish and imperialistic reasons."

IT IS true that since his refusal to correct his admitted misrepresentations concerning the American position on the atomic bomb, as pointed out by Mr. Baruch, Mr. Wallace's reputation as a sincere though mistaken man has greatly diminished. Nevertheless, his prominence as a former Vice President and Cabinet member is sufficient to give wide circulation to what he says. Of Elliott Roosevelt, though he is less important, it is more difficult to speak with restraint. That this bumptious person with his unsavory financial record and unpleasant personal qualities, should so grossly misrepresent his own country in the Russian capital is well calculated to disgust the average American. The character of his denials and his silly charge that he was "framed" by the United States Embassy serve to deepen this disgust.

LITTLE can be done about either of these assaults of the American policy. This is a free country and freedom of speech is basic. What can be done, however, is to lose no opportunity of making it plain that the American people as a whole are behind their Secretary of State, that Messrs. Wallace and Roosevelt speak only for themselves, that neither has the respect or regard of any considerable number of American citizens. That is the only answer.

Stricken after he had driven some heifers to the pasture on his farm at the Irish Meeting House, near Dublin, about 8.30 Sunday morning, William H. Saltzman, 53, a veteran of World War I, died very suddenly.

Mr. Saltzman, who lived in that vicinity for 25 years, was found dead on the bank of the road near his home by a passerby. It is believed he felt ill, and lay down on the bank where he expired. He had been under treatment for a heart condition for some time.

A native of Beaver Springs, Pa., the deceased lived in Iowa before locating in this community. During World War I he served with the A. E. F. in France 18 months.

Mr. Saltzman was a member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Dublin, and Hartzell - Crouthamel Post, American Legion, Perkasie.

In addition to his widow, Louise, Mr. Saltzman is survived by four sisters, all of whom reside in Pittsburgh.

Inside Your Congress

Yield or Freeze

—by—
SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL
The Gentleman from Indiana

We have come to a fateful time in our nation's life.

The coal strike at the beginning of winter, the support given to it by other labor leaders, the certainty that if Lewis succeeds, labor in all other major industries will rush to follow suit, the prospect that another round of wage increases will price labor and its products out of the market in a consumers' strike, with depression and widespread unemployment in its wake, is but part of the gloomy picture.

At the very time we are trying to justify the loss of a million dead and crippled men, by bringing the war in which they fought to an end worthy of their sacrifice, the diplomats of the world are seeking a way out of the mess. They are seeking a way out of the mess by bringing this giant nation to its knees.

Do not think that in far-off capitals this shameful spectacle is overlooked.

Mr. Lewis is, or has been, a very able labor leader. He has won victories for his men which they deserved to win. The condition of the soft coal miners until recent years was pitiful, and I, for one, have not begrudged paying more for coal that they might have a better wage. But the living conditions of miners is not the issue today. Their weekly earnings have gone up from $23.49 in 1937 to $42.37 today. Some are making $4,000 to $6,000 a year.

They now enjoy the highest earnings in twenty leading industries, including automobile manufacturing. John Lewis now proposes to take coal from the bins of millions of working men who are poorer than his miners.

We might compare the 400,000 soft coal miners with our 6 million farmers. The farmer has no investment in tools. The farmer has an average investment of nearly $7,000. Yet, the average farm family's net income is $800 less than that of the miners, and this excludes any return on his investment.

The tools with which the miner works are supplied by others. What do you think the profit is per ton of coal at the pit head? In 1944 it was 15 cents a ton; in 1945, 16 cents; in 1946, 9 cents; in 1947, 7 cents; in 1948, 1 cent per ton! Before 1940, although some mines operated at a profit for fifteen straight years, the soft coal industry, as a whole, operated at a loss every year.

In the light of these facts, the millions who are being struck by this strike are under no moral obligation to pay more for coal, or to freeze for lack of it in order to give more power to John L. Lewis. The issue is not the use of the injunction. The real question is whether this nation, which has done so much for John Lewis and his men, is entitled to coal from him or them? This is a world of reciprocal obligations.

A few weeks ago, during the meat shortage, John Lewis said his men could not dig coal without meat. But neither can the families of the men who work in the meat packing plants live without coal. If Lewis will not supply them with coal, why should they supply him with meat? I ask you, man to man, Mr. Lewis wants milk delivered in the homes of his miners. Why then, should the children of the milkman go cold for want of heat? I ask you, man to man.

In short, what moral right has John L. Lewis to demand for himself and his men all the benefits and services of our closely integrated and inter-dependent society, and then say to all other Americans, freeze, freeze, until you force the government of your country to yield to me?

FALLS ALUMNI TO MAKE DEBUT IN CAGE LEAGUE HERE

Hibernians Will Be The Opponents of Falls On R. & H. Floor

ONE OTHER GAME

Visitors Made Strong Showing When They Played Here Few Years Ago

The Falls Alumni team will make its 1946 debut tonight in a Bristol Basketball League game when it meets the Hibernians on the Rohm & Haas floor. In the second encounter, the Passanante five will attempt to break into the win column playing Rohm & Haas. First game will start at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

The Falls team made an excellent showing when it was a member of the loop several seasons ago. The team is managed by "Bill" Lovett, who has moulded together a team composed of graduates of the Falls Township school. Several of his players were members of the squad in 1940 when it joined the Bristol circuit. In this category are: Steve Jadocki, Fred Breigle, Shirley Duerr, and George Chewing. To this list, Lovett has added "Bill" Baker, Al Monti, Kenny Parr, Art Driscoll, Norm White, and Dick Anderson.

The "Hibos" are one of the favorites in the league. Managed by "Moose" Mulligan, the Hibernian quintet is composed mostly of veteran players including Joe Snyder, Joe Quigley, Joe Dugan, Joe Gallagher, "Brook" Harkins, Joe Cahill, Lloyd McGinley. In addition to these, Mulligan's offensive power will be strengthened by "Johnny" Rodgers, one of the leading scorers of the Youth League last season.

Jesus Vanzant has taken over the management of the Rohm & Haas team and during the practice session, the chemical mixers have shown up exceptionally well. It is most likely that Manager Vanzant will start the following: "Chuck" Klein and Rice, forwards; "Augie" Everett, center; Elmer and Carnvale, guards.

The Passanante team played its first game on Wednesday night and lost to the Fifth Ward team. Manager Patrick has signed Theron Howell in order to bolster his defense and it is most likely that Don Fetterman, coach of Bristol High School, will be in uniform to aid the offensive system of the sixth ward team.

Three Whiskies and Two Ales Cost Man Over $200

Lauchorne, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to assault and battery on his wife, Mary, who is living in New York. He was sentenced to pay the costs and was placed on probation for one year.

Two factors—the prosecutrix didn't consult the District Attorney's office to see whether she had a case that was worth bringing into criminal court and the defendant waiving a hearing before a Justice of the Peace—caused a Solebury township neighbors' "dogwood quarrel" to result in dividing costs amounting to $62.31 between the two.

The prosecutrix, Mrs. Elizabeth Giles Deik Hight, Aquetong road, near New Hope, paid $31.16. The defendant, Harry C. Wagner, Jr., her next-door neighbor, who admitted cutting off two dogwood branches which extended over a 15-foot right-of-way paid a similar amount.

A jury, which deliberately more than an hour and one-half, on Tuesday acquitted Wagner of a charge of unlawfully mutilating a shade tree, and divided the costs.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer, before whom the trial began on Monday, remarked that it was another example of a prosecutrix appearing in criminal court before consulting the District Attorney's office as to the merits of the prosecution.

"This case should never have been in court, but should have been settled before a Justice of the Peace," Judge Boyer remarked. Why the defendant refused to have a hearing before a Justice of the Peace and wanted to appear in court was not explained.

The trial was marked with tedious details and a background of misunderstandings and ill-feelings concerning a right-of-way which is used by both the prosecutrix and defendant.

Judge Keller yesterday sentenced John Anthony Sadowkos, of Plains, Pa.—an old offender with a long prison record—to 2½ to 5 years in the Eastern State Penitentiary, after a jury had convicted him of bringing a stolen automobile into the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 20th.

Sadowkos pleaded guilty to other counts charging failure to stop a motor vehicle at the scene of an accident and failure to render assistance and submit identity.

During the trial, testimony was presented to show that the defendant was involved in a hit-run accident in front of the Warrington Inn. He was arrested by Trooper Harris, of the Doylestown sub-station of State Police, in possession of a stolen car, which the defendant told the court and jury, was "loaned to him by a friend." The car was stolen in New Jersey.

The fanciest cargo of rare whiskies that has been transported over a Bucks county highway in many years, was described in court yesterday when Frank Graziano, of Trenton, holder of a retail liquor license, pleaded guilty to the unlawful possession and transportation of liquor in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Graziano was fined $300 and costs by Judge Keller. The defendant had stopped in Morrisville to get something to eat on his way to Atlantic City when he was arrested. It is legal to transport liquor in New Jersey, but not to bring it into Pennsylvania.

The rare cargo of Scotch, rye and bourbon whiskies was seized by the police and turned over to the Sheriff of Bucks county for safekeeping and condemnation proceedings preliminary to having it turned over to hospitals in the county.

Miss Barbara Burrell, 19, of Doylestown, was before Judge Keller yesterday on a morals charge brought by Patrolman Clarence Irwin of the Doylestown police. The Court severely censured the girl's parents and warned them that they would have to keep better control over their daughter. Sentence was suspended and Miss Burrell placed on probation for a period of one year with Miss Gertrude Bright as probation officer.

Thomas J. Olson, of Philadelphia, former resident of Oakford, was acquitted by a jury in Judge Keller's court, and the costs were placed on his wife, Mary C. Olson, the prosecutrix.

During a family squabble Olson is alleged to have struck his wife. Judge Keller commended the jury for the verdict that was agreed upon in short order, and censured Mrs. Olson as the instigator of all the trouble in the household.

"Either pay the costs or go to jail," Judge Keller told Mrs. Olson.

EASTON—There was no danger of "watered stock" even though a main barrel and flooded the cellar of the Lafayette Trust Company.

an intended burglary when he was caught standing in the yard about 9:30 at night.

"The real serious phase in this case is your loitering around houses," Judge Boyer said. "The purpose that took you there will get you into serious trouble some day. Some time an infuriated property owner will see you and shoot you as a prowler or supposed burglar."

This is the first time Lindberg, who is employed as an electrician in Philadelphia and is a native of Kansas, has been in trouble in Bucks county.

Frame recalled that Pennsylvania had constructed a highway to join over a new bridge with a like relief route in New Jersey, but New Jersey had never built its road. He said Pennsylvania was ready to make the connection any time New Jersey acted.

Miller cited the general problem of traffic congestion in Trenton and called for "four-way" co-operation in relieving it among Federal, State city and Mercer County agencies. He expressed confidence funds for partial construction of the debris.

ed highway would be available next year from State and Federal sources. The total cost is estimated at nearly $10,000,000.

State Senator C. Wesley Armstrong Jr. and the three Republican Assemblymen-elect, Howard S. Keim, C. Stanley Stultz and Albert F. Clemens, were present. Among them, they will sponsor legislation to make the project a freeway with restricted access roads and no traffic lights to slow speedy movement of vehicles.

Miller told the group Trenton had a definite place in the general post-war State program for traffic relief. He was introduced by W. S. Johnston, chairman of the committee, who said the civic group fully endorsed the project and the State plan to build 8-100, a super freeway linking Trenton with the Newark metropolitan area.

Numerous movements were under way to get the soft coal miners back into the pits. One was an appeal by AFL President William Green that the miners and operators negotiate a new contract. Reaction was awaited from Lewis and the operators.

Lewis received support in his fight from both Green's AFL, with which the UMW is affiliated, and the CIO.

President Truman will make a radio appeal Sunday night for settlement of the walkout. The president is expected to outline the damage which the coal stoppage is causing and the economic paralysis which lies ahead. It is believed Mr. Truman will appeal to the nation to help conserve dwindling soft coal stocks.

Developments in the coal case pointed up the threat to the nation's economy. Wholesale industrial plant closures and layoffs of hundreds of thousands of workers are expected to follow in the wake of the freight embargo.

President Truman will make a radio appeal Sunday night for settlement of the walkout. The president is expected to outline the damage which the coal stoppage is causing and the economic paralysis which lies ahead. It is believed Mr. Truman will appeal to the nation to help conserve dwindling soft coal stocks.

Developments in the coal case pointed up the threat to the nation's economy. Wholesale industrial plant closures and layoffs of hundreds of thousands of workers are expected to follow in the wake of the freight embargo.

Lewis' and UMW's Attorneys Go Into A Conference With Judge

Numerous movements were under way to get the soft coal miners back into the pits. One was an appeal by AFL President William Green that the miners and operators negotiate a new contract. Reaction was awaited from Lewis and the operators.

Lewis received support in his fight from both Green's AFL, with which the UMW is affiliated, and the CIO.

HIBERNIANS WIN OVER KEYSTONE BY FIVE-POINT SCORE

Keystone Youngsters Tie
Score in Less Than Five Minutes

FINAL SCORE IS 49 TO 44

Keystoners Rallied in Second Half and Almost Spilled
The "Hiboes"

Trailing by 12 points at half-time the Keystone Oil team rallied in the second half and almost spilled the Hibernian Juniors last night in the night-cap of the Youth League double-header on the Mutual Aid floor. Final score was: Hibernians, 49; Keystone, 44.

Not only did the Keystone youngsters tie the score with less than five minutes to play but actually forged ahead when Gene Barbetta dropped in a pair of fouls. But the height of the Hibernian players proved to be the deciding factor as twice Jack Gross shot in double-deckers from side court and this combined with a field goal by Gannon gave the Hibbs their deciding markers.

The Keystone team had several opportunities to score baskets during the closing minutes of the tilt but were wild with their shots, only Rago doing some fine shooting.

High man for the winners was Gross who scored 22 points, 14 of which were made in the second half. The Hiboes scored 18 points during this half. "Tommy" Kervick who garnered 10 Hibernian points in the first half was shut out from the field during second half play. Ciambello, Barbetta, and Rago were outstanding for the losers.

ST. ANN'S GRIDDERS CLOSE THE SEASON

St. Ann's A. A. has decided to close its 1946 football season. The "Saints" were going to play another contest before closing the season, but the change in weather brought about the decision not to play any more this year.

The "Saints" won nine games, lost one, and tied two. It was awarded a trophy for winning the western division of the Northeast Conference but was eliminated by Bridesburg in the playoffs. Morrisville and Olney "Vets" tied the "Saints."

Its victories were over Willow Grove, Chestnut Hill, Burlington, Morrisville, Unruh, Cheltenham, Ambler, Holmesburg and Trenton Eagles.

HARRISBURG — (INS) — Five hundred million barrels of oil have been produced in Pennsylvania's Bradford oil field since its discovery 75 years ago. The State Planning Board said the field, located in northwestern Pennsylvania, was a pioneer in the application of new methods of oil recovery particularly in the use of "water flooding" by which oil is floated to the surface after natural pressure has failed.
